Girls from government schools in India face challenges such as poverty, undernourishment and restrictions on mobility, even today. Due to dated patriarchal norms followed by certain communities, girls are discouraged from playing in public spaces or accessing physical, social and emotional benefits of sports.

Project Nanhi Kali's Toofoan Games initiative aims to change this. We have introduced a 'Sport for Life' curriculum for our 1.65,000 Nanhi Kalis currently enrolled in the primary and secondary sections of government schools across India. With this initiative, our objective is to add to the positive impact of helping girls complete 10 years of schooling with dignity. From management to the field, Toofoan Games is led by women.

This year, 3,70,000 girls participated in Toofoan Games. We look forward to empowering many more girls through sport in the future.

HDFC

adds to Nanhi Kalis' bank of practical knowledge

As a part of the 'Shiksha ka Saathi' initiative, our Nanhi Kalis from Mumbai visited a branch of HDFC Bank on 3rd January 2020.

A group of enthusiastic employees welcomed and interacted with the girls. The Nanhi Kalis were given an overview of the social etiquettes and corporate culture of HDFC Bank. The girls also shared their goals and aspirations with the team which were very well received.

We thank HDFC Bank and Tata AIA for collaborating with us to give the Nanhi Kalis a real insight into the corporate world.

SAP India

joins Project Nanhi Kali to help girls ride the digital wave

SAP India's Code Unnati joins hands with Project Nanhi Kali to provide quality education and digital access to over 11,000 underprivileged girl children by 2020. The partnership was announced at a high-profile event at the India Habitat Centre in New Delhi in the presence of Dr. Harsh Vardhan, Minister of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India.

To prepare for the wave of digital transformation the country is currently experiencing, building digital skills is essential and Project Nanhi Kali already provides secondary school girls in the programme with access to digital tablets pre-loaded with educational content. Code Unnati, SAP's flagship initiative, equips youth and children with quality STEM education and Digital Literacy and will work with Project Nanhi Kali to further enhance their digital learning platform.

Together the programs will provide support across the nation including places such as Maharashtra (Mumbai), Gujarat (Bharuch), West Bengal (Darjeeling) and further expand training to 5,000 girls in high need areas of Karnataka; and 1,000+ girls in Shravasti and Varanasi regions in Uttar Pradesh, thereby educating 11,275 girls by 2020.

TMM

A marathon to give her a better future in the long run

It was another great year for Project Nanhi Kali at the TATA Mumbai Marathon. On a cool Sunday morning in January, it was heartwarming to see a huge turnout of enthusiastic supporters, all excited to #RunForHer. Our team received an overwhelming response at the event with funds worth INR 2,26,73,362 raised for our Nanhi Kalis. We're also grateful to our group CFO Mr. V S Parthasarthy for being a part of the #RunForHer and his unwavering support.

We thank all our supporters for helping many girls get to the start line of learning with their contribution. But our race isn't finished yet, as we continue to make education accessible to more little girls.

The big race may have ended. A Nanhi Kali's race has just begun. #RUNFORHER
